

Point of the Mountain Pass

Almost immediately after the first settlement of Sulphur Springs, Brigham Young started a road around the point of the mountain. He called a group of men to make the road around the point.

Lehi resident, Joel W. White was the first man from the south to go over the new pass. He went to pick up a skiff from Salt Lake that Claiborne Thomas had purchased to go fishing on Utah Lake.

The Point of the Mountain pass was completed almost immediately after coming to the Salt Lake Valley.
